Waldorf School of Princeton Offers After School Programs to the Community

This fall the Waldorf School of Princeton will once again offer after school enrichment programs that will be open to all children in the community. Enrollment is open for acting workshops and a Chinese calligraphy class beginning in September. The classes will be held at the Waldorf School of Princeton, located at 1062 Cherry Hill Road.

Students in grades five through eight are eligible to participate in the acting workshops, which will be held on Monday and Wednesday afternoons. The workshops are taught by Carol Kehoe, a resident of Hopewell and a member of Actor's Equity who has worked in the theater as an actor, director, producer and teacher for over 25 years.

A Chinese calligraphy class is offered for students in grades one through eight on Tuesday afternoons. The class will be taught by Seow-Chu See, a professional artist.

“It is wonderful to see the children from our school and from other schooling environments coming together and participating in programs that reflect the approach of Waldorf education. We look forward to welcoming students from the community to the after school program”, said Mollie Rose, Faculty Chair at Waldorf School of Princeton.
